RAIL STRIKERS HERE SEEK SENATORIAL AID; COURT REDUCES DILLON DAMAGE JUDGMENT

STRIKERS SAY SHERIFF VEALE IS ALL RIGHT

At yesterday's meeting of the striking shop craftsmen of the Santa Fe Coast Lines, Chairman B. G. Warrington, of the strike committee, was instructed to draft a clean bill of health for Sheriff R. R. Veale, touching the matter of the veteran officer's attitude towards organized labor.

"The differences which had prevailed between the union labor men and the sheriff have been thoroughly and satisfactorily adjusted, and there appears no reason so far as we are concerned why he should not have the support and confidence of any who may be interested in his candidacy. Nor is there any objection on our part to his cards being displayed in the business houses of Richmond," Warrington told the Record-Herald last night.

12,383,770 Ferry Passengers in Six Months by S. P.

During the first six months of 1922, the Southern Pacific ferry-boats carried 12,383,770 passengers across San Francisco bay, according to an announcement by the Southern Pacific Company.

In that period, 8,612,092 passengers were handled by way of Oakland pier; 2,796,7440 at Alameda pier, and 974,938 on the Oakland harbor route.

Traffic across San Francisco bay was especially heavy during the Shrine convention week in San Francisco. On Thursday, June 15, the day of the big Shrine parade, approximately 120,000 passengers were handled without an accident or loss of a single piece of baggage. The company has had no fatalities to passengers from accidents to ferryboats during the past twenty years.

V. W. Liukart, prominent veteran of foreign wars, has just returned from a two-weeks" outing which took in points of interest on the Russian River, in the Santa Cruz Mountains and Long Beach.

"Long Beach is all oil. I never saw anything like it," said Liukart. "Six years ago lived in that town, and it was not known as an oil town then, but some crank spotted some oil sand, and now they are worth hundreds of millions. There is real prosperity in Long Beach," he concluded.

Verdict For Dillon Cut To $15,000

The verdict of $25,000 awarded J. Plunkett Dillon from John A. Qualls postmaster at Sanger, as the outgrowth of an automobile accident has been reduced $10,000 by Superior Judge James G. Quinn, following a motion for a new trial by attorneys representing Qualls.

Dillon was struck by an automobile driven by Qualls on San Pablo avenue, near Park street, Emeryville, in January of 1921, and suffered serious injuries. The verdict of $25,000 damages was rendered by a jury in Judge Quinn's court three months ago. It was argued that the verdict was decidedly excessive and not warranted by the evidence. The defendant demanded a new trial.

Judge Quinn agreed with this view and ordered a new trial unless the defendant should agree that the amount should be $15,000. No indication was given as to whether Dillon would accept the $15,000 or a new trial.

Professor J. Plunkett Dillon is well known in Richmond where he has for some time conducted a voice studio.

He was represented in the case at bar by Attorney Will S. Robenson, of this city.

Striking Craftsmen Appeal To Senators Back Harding; Will

United States Senators Hiram Johnson and Samuel M. Shortridge and Congressman Charles F. Curry are being appealed to by the striking shop craftsmen of the Santa Fe Coast Lines to get in touch with President Harding and urge that he stress with the rail magnates of the country the importance of adjusting the strike along the lines suggested by the President.

Strong letters today will be mailed to the two senators and the congressman, indicating the sense of yesterday's meeting.

Back the President

The rail men here who are on strike say that they believe the President's platform of suggested settlement of fers a fair, reasonable and just solution to the troubles which are costing the American people untold millions which can never be retrieved.

Socialist Candidate Here

Alexander Horr, of San Francisco, candidate for governor of California on the Socialist ticket, addressed the strikers for half an hour. At the conclusion of his speech the men were so well pleased, that they asked him to talk for another half-hour, which he did.

He discussed political and economic questions, and showed an intimate and sympathetic knowledge of the problems that today perturb the railroad men of the country.

Miners' Head Present

Organizer Gurner, of the United Mine Workers, was present and discussed the coal mine situation.

The strikers here were informed by the relief committee that there are plenty of funds in the strong box to care for needs of their number which may arise from day to day.

The people of Richmond have responded liberally to all benefits given and proposed for the general relief of the striking craftsmen.

When, and if the strike is adjusted, the strikers here will stage a public parade and demonstration of thanks to the good people who have stood by them during the trying weeks which have been brought about by the upheaval.

May Stage Parade

There probably will be floats and placards conveying the ideals and sentiments of the men and women who have conducted in Richmond a bloodless campaign for what they believe to be the fundamental rights of humanity: the right to a living wage for an honest day's work.

Another Cut in Nash Car Prices

Following telegraphic advices from the Nash Motor Company at Kenosha, Wis., Frank A. Scholes, local Nash delaer, announces price reductions ranging from $60 to $235 on all models of Nash cars, including fours and sixes. The prices were effective August 1.

According to Scholes, among the factors entering into the new price are the reduction in the cost of materials and improvement in production methods, thus resulting in a greater number of cars being manufactured at a less cost than before.

Lucky Girls and Boys Get Dolls' Heads, Balls Today

All those boys and girls who clipped the notices from Read's Dry Goods Store advertisement of yesterday morning will receive the doll heads and balls this morning if they take the notices to the store early.

The girls will get the doll heads and the boys will get the balls. But of course you know that already for it would be silly to think of a boy wanting a doll's head or a girl wanting a ball. Of course the most important thing is to be sure and bring your mothers, for they are the ones who will have the most fun buying all the many bargains.

REFINERS GIVE STANDARDS GOOD BEATING

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Barrel House	9	5	.643
Mechanical Shops	9	5	.643
All Standards	6	8	.429
Refinery	4	10	.286

After losing seven games in a row the lowly Refiners came to life yesterday afternoon and hung an 8 to 4 defeat on the All Standards. Dell Webb, the tall Refinery twirler, went the entire route for the cellarites and pitched good ball. He had one bad inning—the first, when the All Standards pounded his offerings for four runs—but settled down and held Pat McDonough's boys to two hits during the last six innings.

Morrow's Offerings Pounded

Mike Morrow started on the hilltop for the All Standards but was no puzzle to the Refiners, who gathered five tallies off his delivery. He was replaced in the fourth by Cullers, who held the Refiners safe until the final spasm.

Double Steal Does Work

The basement champs stepped into the lead by putting one run across in the opening round. With two away, Morrow became wild and walked Schaller and Roberts. "Bill" and "Skipper" then engineered a double steal, with the former scoring when Kilkenny overthrew third.

All Standards Score, Too

This lead didn"t last long the All Standards coming back in their half of the first and chasing four tallies over the platter by means of doubles by Duncan and Friene, a single by Cullers and Merani's long circuit wallop over the right field wall.

More Markers in Third

The contest looked iced for the All Standards but the Refiners got busy again and gathered four more markers in the third. Duncan drew a pass and Bartram singled to right. Schaller was safe at first on Merani's error, filling the bags. Duncan scored on Roberts' infield hit and Bartram counted when Zimmerman drew a pass. Schaller scored on Autry's sacrifice fly to right, and Roberts brought in the fourth run of the inning by stealing home.

Pile 'Em Up in 7th

The Refiners made some more runs for good measure in the seventh. Schaller walked and Roberts beat out a hit to short. Zimmerman fouled to Duncan but Autry was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Dolan rapped a hard grounder to Allen and Schaller scored when Kilkenny dropped Allen's throw home. Cannon hit a long sacrifice fly to left and Roberts scampered across the dish. Webb walked and Duncan beat out an infield hit, scoring Autry. Bartram ended the fun by fanning.

THE WORLD NEVER RICHER IN OPPORTUNITY

We of today, however, stand in a new place of power. Where Plato could conceive of human biology only in the crudely physical and empirical terms of the breeder of game birds and sporting dogs, Darwin, Mendel, and DeVries have given us keys to the mystery of our heredity—mental and spiritual as well as physical. Where Plato stood isolated in a brief historic movement, with no conception of the possibilities of progress and with scarcely a suspicion of the cyclic cataclysms of history, we have grasped both ideas. Biologically we are, or should be, masters of the future.

Economically and politically, according to our traditional tenets, the world is fortunate as never before. Except for its present setback, it is richer than ever, and it is much more democratic. For the first time in history the future depends upon the collective wisdom of the people. Nor has our doctrine of equality blinded us to the need of education. Quite freely we admit that if the nation is to endure and advance its citizens must go to school—be educated out of equality to the top of their various bents. So we have compulsory attendance in the grammar schools and state universities which, for the money spent on it and the numbers that make use of it, is unapproached in the modern world—infinitely beyond anything the world has known hitherto. Like the rooms, our classrooms are thronged. But are we rich in virtue as in things material? Are universal suffrage and compulsory schooling, even when sustained by education highly privileged, advancing the life of spirit. Corbin, in the August Scribner's.

FAMILY LIFE

Churchmen, in their capacity as representatives of a religious denomination sometimes make statements inconsistent not only with the truth, but statements contrary to sound morals. Thus, a report concerning the average American home and family, made public by the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal church, we read: "Prostituted as it (marriage) is in the United States, to a mere means for physical union, a legalized form of concubinage, it will produce the results of increasing sterility, as it has always done in the past."

It is hard to believe that men presumably intelligent and sufficiently prominent to be selected as delegates to a national convention of the church could be induced to attach their names to a slander so unjust to the vast majority—more than 90 per cent—of American homes.

The percentage of homes disintegrated by lack of love and mutual forebearance probably is not so great as the percentage of churchmen who go wrong.

The report speaks of the American home life as "in a state of chaos."

The average American home is not in a state of chaos. The home in a state of chaos is so exceptional that it invariably becomes a community scandal. There never has been in the history of the world a time when the average parent was as considerate of his children and as anxious to see them get on as he is today; there never has been a time when children had so many advantages.

If the delegates to this national convention don't know this, and if they accept the report of the council, then, indeed, we fear that one factor in the great social organization is decadent, but it isn't the family.

GET POOR QUICK

Charles Garland, who declines to be a millionaire, although he inherited enough money to make him one, has found a way to "get rid" of his surplus, a problem that has disturbed him not a little in the last year or two. We almost are persuaded that he is a good business man, so efficient has he shown himself to be in selecting a plan for the disintegration of money in bulk.

He announces that he will give it to a group of liberals largely representative of the Greenwich school of philosophy, to do with as they think best. The idea is somewhat original, but the outcome can be foreseen with half an eye.

No doubt the trustees of the fund will do their best; they have ideals, all of them, ideals that are more or less in opposition to each other, and they mean well. But ability to handle intelligently a large sum of money is not the hallmark of a radical. We look to see a succession of experiments, and we also look to see an early dissipation of the fund. Then, young Garland no longer will be a millionaire; his friends will have had their day and all should be happy and contented.

A DECLINE IN CAUSE

It took less to excite the men of Hope, Ark., to mob-murder in the case of the negro, West, than it did in the previous case of the negro Tuggles.

Either the stock of negroes has slumped in that community, or the temper of the inhabitants has become more wire-edged in the eighteen months intervening between the two lynchings. But whatever the reason, it may be taken that the next hanging or burning will have still less back of it. Perhaps the third victim will surrender his life merely because he happens to be alive at the time the blood-thirst demands appeasing.

REFERENDUM ON PROHIBITION

Our Washington correspondence calls attention to the candidacy of Senator France for re-election in Maryland. Senator France is not an elder statesman of the first rank, although he is respected for the frankness of his opinions, and for his uncompromising attitude in defending them. But it is not his peculiar habit of differing from his own party leaders that makes his candidacy of national importance. It is his stand on the subject of prohibition. Senator France is in favor of a repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and he announces that he will offer a joint resolution looking to its repeal if re-elected.

To be sure he could, and, if he feels that way about it, he should offer his joint resolution now. He is in the senate; he may not be next year. But he promises to offer it if re-elected. This gives citizens of Maryland a clean-cut issue. His opponents in the primaries may not be ardent prohibitionists themselves, but the issue is his; he made it.

If he is not re-nominated his opponent at the polls may not be an ardent prohibitionist, but anti-prohibition is the senator's platform. He stands for it.

If he is re-nominated and re-elected it may be presumed without further argument that Maryland is an anti-prohibition state.

A "RIOT" INDEED

A new use has been found for the state constabulary of New Jersey. In the fight to create this body of mounted policemen advocates of the measure held that it would be a sort of superbody and would protect lives and property in great emergencies.

It was a sound argument and resulted in the creation of the mounted police force.

The result has been disappointing.

Now, in New Jersey, where the bathing suit agitation is as broad as the state, the mounted constabulary has been instructed to supervise the costumes of women and men and see that they are not worn as street costumes, or to parties in the early morning hours.

We are not so radical in our liberality that we contend women should be permitted to saunter around the streets in scant bathing suit costumes, or that they should attend parties so clad, but the situation is not one to demand the employment of state police. Again, if the local police authorities is not capable of coping with such a situation then the community is getting what is coming to it.

Countless checks make for Quality

If there is any secret about the making of a good motor oil, it is the secret of carefulness. The uniformly high quality of Zerolene would be impossible, were it not for a [illegible] of scrupulous testing and checking that begins at the well and continues until the finished product leaves the shipping department.

Field chemists test the crude oil as it comes from the well, and forward samples to our research department for analysis. At a dozen points during distillation, treatment, and filtering, samples are taken and tested, so that each stage of the process may be rigidly controlled. Exacting standards of cleanliness are maintained in every department.

Finally, the finished oil is subjected to dynamometer and road tests, by which its quality and lubricating efficiency are fully demonstrated before it is offered to the public.

The Result — Purity and Uniformity

Zerolene has always been entirely free from all objectionable impurities and compounds. Hence it does not "break down" under high engine temperatures, but maintains its lubricating body under all operating conditions.

All oils when burned in the combustion chamber produce carbon, but carbon troubles are minimized when Zerolene is used. Very little carbon is deposited, and this is of a soft, flaky nature, so that most of it is blown out with the exhaust.

These essential characteristics of stability, [illegible] and purity are possessed uniformly. Rigid refinery checks maintain the quality of Zerolene and safeguard the consumer.

My stomach, kidney and liver were in bad condition. The lower part of my body pained me awfully. I could hardly lie on either side and sleep. My bowels were hard to move and painful. I treated with other doctors and medicines but did not seem to do me much good. After taking six weeks Kong Wah Herbs I feel like a new woman.

Stomach As Heavy As Lead

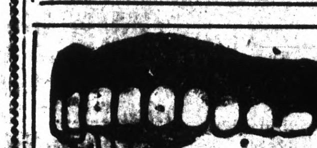

March 16, 1922.
I suffered from dysentery and difficult breathing, my bowels moving constantly with bloody discharges. I also had morning indigestion and my stomach felt as though there was a piece of lead in it. Failing to get relief elsewhere, I took the herbs of the FONG WAN HERB CO. for two weeks. My former complaints have left me entirely and I am now enjoying good health.
MRS. P. J. SNOWBERGER, 1409 Madison St., Oakland, Calif.

Suffered Unnecessarily
Oakland, Feb. 3, 1922.
At intervals I suffered severe pleurisy pains which began in the right side of my chest and ran around under my arm into my shoulder blade. It was both painful and difficult to raise my arm. I had taken various sorts of treatment for the trouble, but had found no relief. Now, after seven weeks of the FONG WAN HERBS, the pain in my chest is entirely gone and I feel quite well. I bought the herbs in packages and cooked them at home.

Fred Forwick, Kills Buck With One Barrel Gun

Fred Forwick, eighteen-year-old son of Eberhard Forwick, did not have a high-priced rifle or automatic shot gun when he went into the wilds of Mendocino county, but Lady Luck was perched upon his shoulders, and what else mattered?

When the crowd left camp Tuesday to lay low the first buck of the season, some had the very last word in shotguns, and had spent half the night before arranging their shells and getting the pieces ready to knock over the four pointers. And there were some really smart, expensive guns in the crowd.

Fred had an old gun, one barrel of which was out of commission, and he told his father, "I won't go along with you folks. What chance would I have with this old gun against all those fine ones?"

So he went his way alone.

Using patience and persistence and spurred on by the optimism which is part of youth's portion, pretty soon a fine 75-pounder showed up, and bang went the old rusty piece, and down came the buck.

Fred waded mountain stream and threaded brambly mountain paths with the bleeding buck hung over his shoulder, and was a tired, proud and happy youngster when he reached camp with his first deer.

He also caught the limit of speckled trout, bringing in 25 beauties which he caught by use of salmon eggs. Twenty-four of them were hooked in the regulation fashion, and the twenty-fifth one Fred caught with his bare hands!

You don't believe it?

Well, ask his father.

High School Girls Plan New Pleasures

"Oh, Elsa, isn't it exciting to be going to High School when school opens again. I feel so grown up."

"So do I. I can hardly wait to see what High School will be like. It must be very different from grammar school. We will do all kinds of interesting things."

"I should say so. One studies different things and one can belong to clubs and societies and other things I want to get into a glee club if I can."

"Oh, you can easy enough with that voice. They will be glad to have you. Ill and she can't do any sewing for High school. I want to play in the High School orchestra if I am good enough to get in. Are you going to have some new clothes to wear to High School?"

"I don't think so. My old ones are about worn out, but mother has been ill and she can't do anp sewing for awhile. She wants to make me some new things, but I must wait, I guess."

"Oh, let me tell you what to do. Tell your mother about Curry's, at 515 13th street. They have such pretty clothes for girls our age and they allow one to buy on credit. By paying a small sum down and so much a month, one may have all kinds of becoming clothes."

Cherry's store for men is at 528 13th street.—Advertisement.

Monroe Salisbury And Chas. Chaplin At the Macdonald

Football enthusiasts, of which there are an ever-increasing number, will find some stirring moments in a gridiron conflict which forms one of the sequences of "The Great Alone," a production starring Monroe Salisbury, which will be presented at the Macdonald theater commencing tonight.

Contrary to the usual custom of picturing a corner of a stadium with a handful of people as spectators, the producers have reproduced the actual feature game of California's football season: Stanford vs. University of California. And the scenes of the rooters' section in the stadium will prove a revelation, aside from the stirring action on the field. The Stanford Stadium is one of the largest in the country. And the rooters, packed row on row, present a compact mass in monotone. But that mass possesses a chameleon-like ability to change the hue, and suddenly one finds that acting in unison, solid phalanxes of them have turned altogether white, and there stands out from the mass a big letter S. Another quick change and a letter T, another A, and then N, F. O. R. D. in the order named, spelling the name of the alma mater Stanford. Never a hitch as the great letters formed by hundreds of undergraduates, flash, one after the other, across the field of packed humanity. It is wonderful; and to anyone in whom the college spirit has not died out it is positively thrilling.

"The Great Alone" tells the story of a football hero who carried his chivalry into the great Canadian fastnesses and proved himself a man among men, though handicapped with the stigma: Half-Breed.

The matchless comedian Charlie Chaplin will be featured in "The Cure," and a Prisma added comprise a bill that will appeal to the most exacting patrons.

"Girl of the Golden West" Tonight at Jenning's Show

"The Girl of the Golden West" will be the stellar attraction at Jenning's tent theater this evening.

This play deals with California in "the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '449" and is filled with red-blooded folks who deal with the human emotions that you and I know and feel: love, hate, jealousy, sacrifice and achievement, and the parts all are played sympathetically by persons who not only know the art of acting, but who understand the science of life.

The play itself is too well known as one of the standard semi-classics to require any encomiums here.

Last night "Bought and Paid For," Broadway success, was capably played to a pleased audience.

The tent is thoroughly warm and comfortable, and patrons who contemplate visiting the tent are assured that the atmosphere is kept at a temperature that will insure a maximum of enjoyment of the entertainment.
